HUMANITY'S WASTES

Everything that man touches is turned to his use by processes which involve waste. It is not necessary that we limit the assertion to the products and by-products of farm and factory; the truth penetrates the field of ideas, morals and behavior in general.

For instance, the political energy sed in Arizona and California during the last few years has been a wasted by-product of the Boulder Canyon Dam. There will always be a gap in the total resources of human thought where the cerebration of our politicians on this subject has been lost to the world.

Under the title of "The Disposal of Refuse Ideas," fundamentalism was discussed by Dixon R. Fox, professor of history at Columbia University, before the annual dinner of the American Historical association recently.

"The cast off garments of the intellectuals of one age," Prof. Fox said, "are found on the backs of the ignorant many in the next. Amulets, love philters and the moon's influence on agriculture once had the support of famous names; they flourish now only in the minds of those quite remote from academic contact.

"One hundred and twenty-five years ago the American college professor was a throw off from the clergymen and at the end of the eighteenth century he was very imperfectly detached.

"Fundamentalism was natural to scholarly minds not yet instructed by the Rosetta stone, Agassiz, Lyell and Darwin and the universe was much smaller when the foremost American astronomer knew of but 3000 stars; whereas today 100 million are actually recorded on photographic plates.

At the beginning of the nineteenth century there were 200 numerals; now there are nearly 1500. Genesis seems less adequate as a book of science, whatever truth it may contain as a splendid poem.

Rejection of the Scriptures as a work of science by no means authorizes their rejection as a guide of life."

Professor Fox described the pioneer growth of intellectual culture as starting in the east and spreading westward and said: "So the intellectual garments once cast off in New Haven are now worn by prominent people in Tennessee, Mississippi and Alabama."

BOY SCOUTS

The contribution of Boy Scouts to community service each year, is almost incalculable. Their heroic work in the Florida disaster of last year and in the four great disasters of 1927, the Mississippi and New England floods, the St. Louis tornado and the Pittsburgh explosion, was in itself a great service to the nation, but even greater than that service is the service that Scouts render every day. Trained to be prepared in any emergency the records of the Boy Scouts of America shows that last year more honor medals were awarded to Scouts who risked their lives to save others than were issued in any previous year in Scouting history. Hundreds of people were saved from drowning by Scouts trained in life saving. The work of the Scouts in reforestation projects, clean-up campaigns, safety and health campaigns, and their campaigns against harmful insects and rodents, have won national acclaim.

Speaking of state's rights; as some of our master minds in congress do on occasion, how about the right guaranteed them in the Constitution to be represented in congress by a number of representatives commensurate with their population?

Mr. Coolidge has another distinction afforded him. He is the first President in the history of United States to eat a Thanksgiving turkey in Republican Virginia.

In these days the nickel is legal tender only if it is accompanied by a couple of pennies.

DEAR JUDIE:

I am a young girl and am getting a red coat and would like your advice as to what kind of fur I should get to trim it, and how it should be put on. I want a tight fitting collar and deep cuffs. Do you think black fur would be good? I am 17 and like to keep as young looking as possible. Do you consider that brown close to the neck, and the ex-

Krimmer may be had in light or dark grey also in a shaded effect any of these would, to my way of thinking, be smarter for you than black—you might line your coat with grey and perhaps could have both a red and a grey dress and hats of both colors to alternate.

BEAUTY

Although some women do not seem to need a powder base to make their make-up stay on smoothly, still I feel that such a preparation is essential to the welfare of the skin.

Not only does a vanishing cream serve as a base for powder and rouge—it protects the skin from wind and dust and prevents the minute grains of powder from penetrating the pores and causing trouble.

If the skin is oily, there sometimes seems to be less need of such a lotion or cream than otherwise. Because of the natural oiliness of the skin, the make-up will go on evenly enough and often remain so for some time but still I contend that this is not an entirely wise procedure.

For a skin of this type, a lotion with astringent properties will clear the skin of any undue oiliness, tighten the pores, and forms an excellent surface face on which to apply cosmetics. And, of course, it will also serve to protect the skin.

The woman with a dry skin should never even think of omitting a foundation cream or her powder is likely to show up every crack and ugly wrinkle in her skin. Also she runs the risk of making her skin even drier and more sensitive by exposing it without any protection.

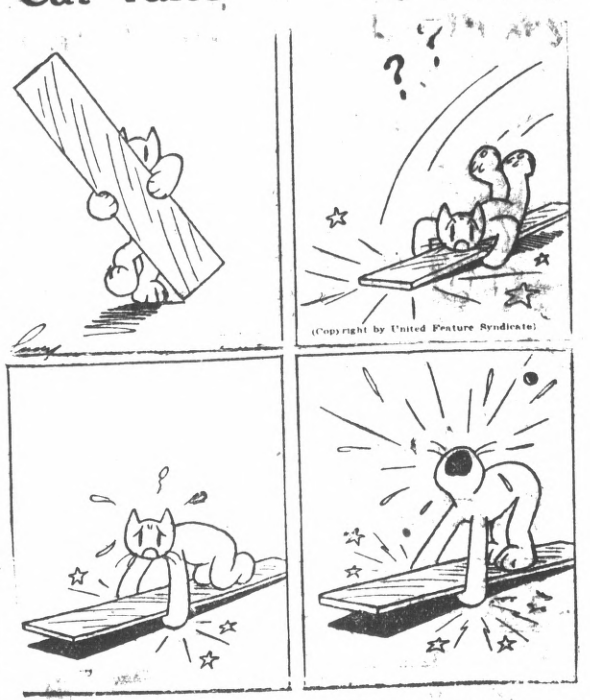

Those people who complain that vanishing cream makes the powder go on in splashes simply have not learned how to use it. The usual difficulty in such cases is that the woman uses too much of the cream when she should also be to my liking.

Flu Creating Phenomenal Demand for Vicks VapoRub

Although the flu itself is not so serious as in 1918, authorities stress the importance of taking every possible precaution for fear of the complications which invade the weakened system after a flu-attack.

They urge, especially, prompt treatment of every cold, as colds lower the body resistance and make it easier for flu or pneumonia to get a foothold.

That the public is heeding this warning is indicated by the phenomenal demand for Vicks VapoRub, the famous external treatment which helped to tame almost overnight during the triple epidemic, in spite of triple capacity the Vicks Laboratories are once more operating night and day, and 432,000 jars are now being produced every 24 hours.

DANCE, BE HAPPY FILM STAR ADVISES

Are you unhappy? Dance the happy way. This is the advice of Lina Basquette, screen actress and noted dancer, who will be seen at the California Theater today in "Show Folks," a lighthearted picture in which she has the role of a dancer.

"I have danced almost as far back as I can remember," says Miss Basquette, "and early in life I learned that dance and music could not withstand the exhilaration and rhythm of the dance. "Just as the pores of the skin throw off waste matter in the mild perspiration induced by dancing so does the mind throw off its waste matter of anxiety, fear and other unhappy emotions. Try it sometimes when there seems no antidote for your ill. Turn on the radio or the victrola and just skit about in the to the music. Invent your own and no matter what they are, watch your mood change as you dance."

"Ballroom dancing is one of the best forms of indoor exercise. For repeatedly heard advice to dance, I can only say that it is the most startling fact that it could be so to a busy third of suffering from a headache and after dancing a few times feel refreshed and quite well. It is simply a chemical reaction, and one that every girl should use to her advantage."

Playing Miss Basquette's dancing partner in "Show Folks" is Eddie Quillan, former vaudeville headliner and film comedy star. Robert Armstrong, Bessie Barriscale, Crawford Kent and Carol Lombard also play important roles. Lombard also plays important roles.

"Show Folks" was directed by Paul L. Stein and produced by Ralph Block. Philip Dunham wrote the original story which was adapted for the screen by Jack Jungmeyer and George Brown.

Colleen In 'Lilac Time'

COLLEEN MOORE, who is coming to the California theater tomorrow in the talkie, "Lilac Time."

BIG TENT CITY BUILT FOR PICTURE

A complete tent city, populated by more than 300 selected citizens was erected on a southern California mountain plateau to facilitate the filming of the extensive spectacular airplane battle scenes of "Lilac Time," First National's special production with Colleen Moore in the stellar role and Gary Cooper heading the support, coming to the California theater Monday.

Miss Moore, the members of the supporting cast and all the technical workers, lived within the broad boundaries of this camp for a month.

A natural flying field, representing a war time flying field in France, was the chief reason for the selection of this particular site. The field housed scores of airplanes and the sky overhead witnessed the performance of stunts by world famous pilots that have never been surpassed for their spectacular and thrilling features.

The camp itself numbered 80 tents. Each tent had wooden floors and sides, rugs, mirrors, gasoline lamps, a wood stove, a distilled drinking water container, screen doors and windows and a shower bath piped with hot and cold water.

The sleeping tents were arranged in rows forming four streets. At one end of the camp were the mess hall, executive tent and recreation tent. Skilled chefs who were paid bankers' salaries prepared scientifically designed menus which were both palatable and healthful.

"Lilac Time" has been called "the most beautiful romance," and centers upon two youngsters. One is Fannie Grice, played by Miss Moore, a little French girl on whose mother's farm a squadron of young British fliers are quartered. The other is Capt. Phil Elythe, a ridiculously youthful pilot in that spectacular and heroic suicidal direction, the Royal Flying Corps, played by Gary Cooper.

John McCormick produced "Lilac Time," which Carey Wilson prepared for filming from Jane Cowell's and Jane Murfin's triumph.

CHORUS GIRL'S PROBLEM ON STAGE

Feeling with the off-stage life and love affair of one of New York's show girls, Nat Holt's comedians will present today at the California theater, "The White Girl's Girl," a pleasing comedy of a girl who has a chorus girl's return to her old home.

"Depicting the girl's struggle to resist temptation and kill her in-born love of the theater, the action moves rapidly through an extremely interesting plot teeming with comic scenes and humorous situations and gives Dick Viton, the featured comedian, one of the best audience pleasing roles he has yet appeared in. Included in the cast of Holt film makers will be Florence Edwards, Florence Cleveland, Ted Lowland, Florence Somer, Margaret Donaldson and George Bell.

Specially selected musical numbers, a new stage setting and gorgeous wardrobe for the film ladies of the Holt film makers will be shown in a presentation that will be up to the standard set by the Holt film organization.

Fight In Basket Of Balloon Gives Film Fans Thrill

Find if you can a more brilliant "place" to stage a fight on a counter than in the basket of a balloon, that is the air!

This is just one of the many hair raising episodes in "Lightning Speed," the great FBO melodrama, action and adventure film which is the current attraction at the Richmond theater, with Bob Steele, the ace of athletes in the starring role.

This picture picks from a flying start, to a whirlwind finish through a maze of pulse-quivering incidents.

FANNIE BRICE MYMAN

By Arline de Haas

Copyright 1928 Warner Bros. Pictures Inc.

"MY MAN," starring Fannie Brice, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

"In an apartment in the Bronx, Fanny Grice is bringing up her orphaned brother, Phil, and her attractive sister, Audrey. Fanny, older than Audrey, makes every sacrifice that her sister, now a stenographer, may be saved from the humdrum life she herself lives. On her way to work, Fanny catches a handsome young man demonstrating a muscle builder. She hurries on to Thorne's, the theatrical costumer, where she sees. At noon, Fanny dresses in a ballet costume and entertains the girls. Lazarus, an actor-director for a theatrical producer, hears Fanny singing and asks her name.

"Fanny Grice," Lazarus took a notebook from his pocket and jotted down the name. "And you'd really like to go on the stage?" "Like to go on the stage! Oh, Mr. Lazarus, I'll say I would," Fanny assured him excitedly. "All my life I've wanted to go on the stage, but I never had a chance—you know—and besides, I didn't think I was good enough—and—"

"I see," Lazarus smiled, but the girl's evident sincerity and her lack of confidence in herself rather touched him. Most applicants for stage jobs were too full of confidence. "I might speak to Mr.

Waldo about you—get you an appointment with him sometime."

"Oh, Mr. Lazarus, if you only would! I can't tell you how much I'd mean to me. Do you really think you could—I mean—would you—would you try?" Fanny spluttered and gulped. It seemed too good to be true. A chance to try out before Waldo.

"I'll see what I can do for you. I'll let you know in a week or so. Mr. Waldo's out of town now, but as soon as he gets back, I'll let you know."

"I can't thank you enough!" impulsively Fanny grasped the art director's hand and wrung it. "I never thought I'd ever have a chance like this. Oh, Mr. Lazarus, I do so want to get on the stage. You don't know what it'd mean to me. All my life I've dreamed of doing something like this, and now—now—" she faltered, suddenly realizing that she was standing there holding Lazarus's hand. She dropped it quickly.

"All right, Miss Grice. Now, look here, Mr. Lazarus, you've dreamed of doing something like this, and now—now—" she faltered, suddenly realizing that she was standing there holding Lazarus's hand. She dropped it quickly.

"Let's get busy on these costumes!" The two men, with Mrs. Paul, returned to the business of costume-making.

CHAPTER III
Days went swiftly by. A week—two weeks, and still Fanny waited for some word from Lazarus, a telephone call, a note, that would tell her he hadn't forgotten his promise. But nothing came. The art director was in the shop several times, but Fanny didn't dare approach him. He never came back into the workshop, and the few glimpses she had of him made her know that he was too busy to bother about any such unimportant person as herself. Waldo's new show would be opening in a few days, and he, of course, the producer couldn't take time to see anyone at this critical moment. Perhaps after the show had opened and things had quieted down Lazarus might remember her.

At first the girls in the shop were enthusiastic, constantly asking Fanny whether she had had any word. But after waiting a week the excitement was forgotten in the trivial incidents of the day. They were all sewing like mad, now on the Waldo costumes. Sometimes Fanny sighed as she handled the beautiful dresses, thinking always of her chance that might come—a chance to wear such clothes—to be a part of all this hustle and bustle and terrific activity that characterized a Broadway opening. Besides, it was November, and Audrey's birthday was on the 20th of the month. Fanny was planning and scheming to have something nice for her sister. And money was none too plentiful. What with winter coming on, and new clothes for Phil for the cold weather, and a loan to Audrey, there wasn't much to work with. But Fanny had searched about and found some crepe de chine at a bargain, and every evening she had been working on it until she had a set of lingerie completed, all hand made.

So this evening she hurried home from work so that she should have plenty of time to do the shopping and have the table all set when Audrey came in. Carefully she laid more or less forgotten about the promise Lazarus had made in the excitement of getting ready for Audrey's birthday.

Now she was setting the table, laying it with the best linen, the best china and silver and glassware, pausing now and again to admire her own handiwork. From the kitchen came the smell of cooking—things steaming in pots and pans, bubbling, sending out pungent odors. In the corner of the table Fanny placed a round, white, laced cake, dotted with eighteen little pink candles. She hurried out into the kitchen and stirred things in the cooking vessels.

In the living room she got out a white box and opened it. There lay the lingerie, freshly ironed, delicately pink and fluffy with bits of lace and ribbons. Fanny lifted out a nightgown, touching it gently, and then folded it and put it back into place. Carefully she wrapped the box in white tissue paper and tied it with a big, pink bow of ribbon. She placed it conspicuously on the living room table and went back to the kitchen.

Through the open window she looked out on to a narrow alley came the sounds of voices of men and women moving about, talking, laughing. Variegated smells of cooking rose to mingle on the crisp, cold winter air. The cry of hungry babies annoyed the atmosphere. The clank of dumb-waiters moving up and down added their quota of noise to the din.

Out on the street groups of children played, rushing precariously into the street after lost balls, just escaping passing motors that sped up the broad street. Big cars and little cars, everybody homeward bound in the gathering dusk. The street lights flashed on, golden halos, shimmering warm and gleaming. Automobile lights jumped into being, round, yellow eyes beaming at the pavement, little red eyes winking naughtily.

On a side street in front of the apartment house that had an air of shabby gentility, but that always smelled of many things cooking with onions, a long, handsome town car rolled to a stop. Phil, and a group of children, stopped in the middle of their game of ball and rushed up to the car, surrounding it from all angles. A liveried chauffeur jumped out, came around to the door and opened it. Phil and his companions stared, open mouthed, shouting to each other.

"Just wait around the corner for me," she smiled at the heavy figure of the man within. "I'll only be a few minutes."

"All right, baby." The man's lighted cigar glowed against the darkness as he puffed on it slowly. Audrey waved, and pushed her way through the masses of children, her head high. "Hey, Aud! Hello, Aud!" Phil called out to his sister, using his nickname for her.

Angrily, Audrey half turned, hating the shortening of her name, and then thought better of it and made no answer, but hurried towards the house.

"Hey, klumme a dime, mister!" the children began to call to the man they could just see inside the car. They grouped about the door that the chauffeur was trying to close, clamoring for change.

"Go on, get away." The liveried man waved them aside, stepping back into his seat.

MANY SEE NEW STUDEBAKER DISPLAY

Since the announcement recently of Studebaker's new President Eight and Commander Six, the L. J. Thomas, local distributor, has been host to hundreds of interested motorists.

"Considerable interest is being shown in the new Commander Six, which was introduced at a lower price," said Thomas in speaking of the new cars. "It's startling performance has amazed those who have driven it. With a wheelbase of 129 inches and its 75 horsepower motor, the Commander enjoys even more of the brilliant qualities that have made its performance a standard of comparison for the past two years."

The new edition of the President Eight, which won the name of World's champion automobile by its past performances, is offered in two series, with wheelbases of 125 inches and 135 inches. Both series have the same 115 horsepower motor.

Bodies of both cars are lower, due to a double drop frame that gives an even lower center of gravity for increased safety and roadability. Another safety factor which has been adopted by Studebaker is the non-shatterable windshield glass fitted with double blade wipers.

Comfort has been a paramount thought in the construction of the new body designs. There is more leg room in both front and rear compartments. Rear seats are wider, affording ample room for three persons, as a result of an increase in the width of the rear tread. Every provision has been made for the comfort of the driver. In addition to the adjustable seat there are adjustable clutch and brake pedals, adjustable steering column and a new treadle type accelerator.

The new bodies are as notable for their graceful line and smart roominess and comfort. The narrow windshield pillars are gracefully curved from the cowl to the trim polo cap visor. Wide crown fenders hang low over the wheels.

Train Service To Link State Road In Winter

Providing a winter link in motor routes to Northern and Central California that may be closed during periods of heavy snow in the mountains, the Southern Pacific has inaugurated a baggage car service for automobiles across the Sierra range. Thus motorist travel to this section of the state via the Victory Highway will be insured against the barrier of heavy snows and those who do not care for mountain driving in winter months will have available a service over the Sierra range, points out the California State Automobile association.

Inauguration of this service has been urged for some time by the California State Automobile association, the Sacramento Chamber of Commerce, the Nevada State Automobile association, the Reno Chamber of Commerce and other organizations.

The railroad will handle motor cars in baggage service on regular daily schedule between Sacramento and Reno in specially constructed cars.

Car Stealing Third In Crime

Stealing automobiles continues to be one of the major crimes of the nation, as evidenced by the fact that the number of prisoners in federal prisons for this offense is the third largest.

The California State Automobile association reports that 1,396 out of a total of 9,249 in the "prison family" on June 30, 1928 were "up" for violation of the motor vehicle theft law.

WHIPPETS WIN FRIENDS AT DISPLAY

With its new line of Willys-Knight sixes and Whippet fours and sixes which represent a striking advance in automobile design, the Willys-Overland exhibit at the annual National Automobile show in New York shattered all previous records in the attendance it attracted, according to checkers who kept an accurate count of the flow of visitors at the space in the vast show place.

The unusual interest, which was evident from the opening of the show, is attributed to the success which marked the advance showing of the complete newly designed Whippet fours and sixes and the new style Willys-Knight sixes.

The title of the new Whippet appeared to thousands of visitors at the New York show. The fact that the Willys-Overland company had taken this step of adding distinctive style and beauty to its Whippet fours and sixes which already had established their performance ability, is seen as a move on the part of the Toledo manufacturer to attain the position of accepted style leader in the lower priced range.

The bodies of the new Whippets are materially larger, and the interiors present considerably more room for driver and passengers. The appointments of the interiors, which are in keeping with the quality style of the exteriors, also won unusual commendation from the visitors. The special Whippet features, such as the "Finger-Tip Control" new mono-control windshield, new "Two-Lite" lighting system, and the conveniently grouped instruments on the dash panel also came in for marked interest.

The American public has invested $10,000,000 in roads in the past ten years, according to the California State Automobile association.

Paris To Enter Garage Business

The city of Paris may soon be in the garage business. Plans are being considered in the French capital for erection of a system of garages to be leased to concessionaires by the municipal government, according to commercial reports received by the California State Automobile association. The garages would be divided into groups; one in which space would be rented by automobile owners for permanent use and another consisting of garages for transient drivers. The latter would be located in the most crowded sections of the city.

Road Building Record Made

Highway engineers of the United States set a new record of accomplishment in 1928 when they added 50,000 miles to the surfaced highway mileage of the nation, reports the California State Automobile association.

New York Machine Deaths Decreased

Deaths from automobile accidents are showing a decrease in New York city for the first time since motor vehicles came onto the streets, according to advices reaching the California State Automobile association. Although the decrease is only from 933 to 924, it is regarded as encouraging since in every previous year there has been a marked increase.

Registration In Poland Increases

Registration of automobiles in Poland during the past year increased about 27 per cent, according to figures received by the California State Automobile association. Total registration is in excess of 22,000.

Motor Replace Llama Caravans

The advance of the automobile is evidenced by the fact that llama caravans are being replaced by motor vehicles in the Andes.

Auto Association Erects New Signs

Two hundred and sixty-three new road signs appeared on the highways and byways of northern and central California during November, according to the California State Automobile association, which maintains the yellow-diamond sign system for this section of the state. Associated road sign crews also removed 94 signs, replaced 297, repaired 3,475 and cleaned 4,328. In the work of resetting signs for greater visibility, 565 posts were lowered during the month. In new and maintenance work, association road sign trucks traveled 9,928 miles during the month.

36 States Clear Roads Of Snow

Thirty six states engaged in the work of clearing highways of snow during the winter season, according to reports received by the California State Automobile association and more than 110,000 miles of main highways were thus cleared last year.

18 States Have License Laws

California is one of eighteen states requiring operators of motor vehicles to secure a driver's license, according to the California State Automobile association. The states which impose this requirement before permission is given to use the highway are:

Arizona, California, Connecticut, Delaware, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Oregon, Vermont, Washington, West Virginia, Wisconsin and the District of Columbia.

The American Automobile association is leading a movement for a universal driver's license law and is conducting campaigns in the thirty states without such a law for the adoption of this rule.

Mississippi's New Licenses Colorful

Mississippi's 1929 automobile license plates consist of white numerals on a maroon background, according to the California State Automobile association.

1928 Hunting Licenses Expires

Nimrods and followers of Ike Walton must secure new licenses with the beginning of the new year. The California State Automobile association today issued a warning to those who journey to the great outdoors with rod or gun that under a new law all hunting and fishing licenses expired Dec. 31 last and that licenses hereafter will date from the beginning of each calendar year instead of from July 1. The 1929 licenses must be secured before hunting of fishing this year. For the benefit of motorists, the Automobile association issues licenses from its offices in thirty-one cities.

CHEVROLET CAR GIVEN SHOW HONORS

The Chevrolet Motor company was again awarded first place this year at the New York automobile show which opened with more than 45 domestic manufacturers exhibiting their 1929 models. This award carries with it the honor position in the exhibit, an award coveted by all manufacturers because of its allotment on a strictly merit basis.

Each year the National Automobile chamber of commerce which sponsors both the New York and Chicago automobile shows makes the award. Each year the standard of competition has been the same. Manufacturers are ranked strictly on the amount of business transacted during the fiscal year ending the August prior to the time the showing is held. The first place award applies for both the New York and Chicago shows.

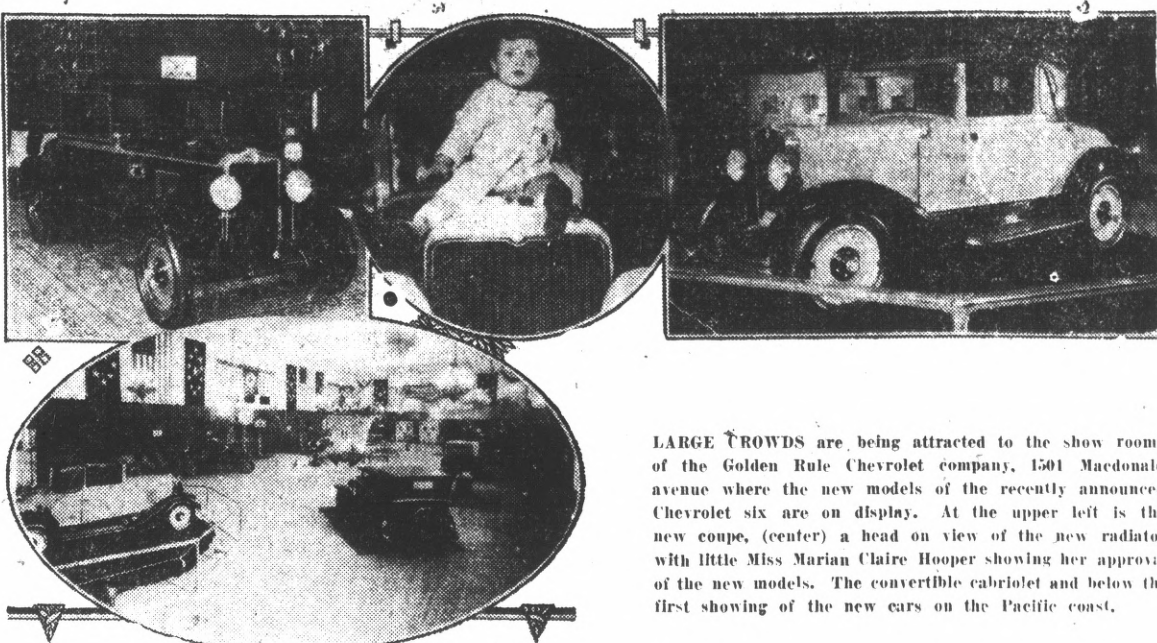

Chevrolet's choice once more for this signal honor serves to emphasize the position of leadership the company has assumed during recent years. It also serves to open auspiciously a year which W. S. Knudsen, president and general manager of the company, has predicted will see the company surpassing all of its former sales and production records.

The new line of sizes which Chevrolet is displaying this year at the show has already been viewed at advance showings throughout the country by millions of people and at the dealers' showrooms where they went on display. Since the mid-November announcement of the new line, Chevrolet's vast productive facilities have been rapidly getting under way at all the Chevrolet assembly plants, so that within a few weeks Chevrolet will again be running close to full capacity.

CHRYSLER AUTO COMPANY HAS NEW TITLE

The far-reaching significance of recent Chrysler operations was not fully grasped either by the trade or the public until an announcement was made yesterday by Harry Curry, Richmond Chrysler dealer that the great group of manufacturing properties under the direction of Walter P. Chrysler is hereafter to be known as Chrysler Motors.

The purpose of this highly important move was tersely expressed by Walter P. Chrysler when he said:

"The one and only justification for a grouping of motor car properties is to render a better public service. Chrysler Motors will accomplish mutual efficiencies and savings which will give individual and commercial transportation in quality, service and economy. That is its sole purpose."

All Products in One Plant. All of the products of Chrysler Motors are manufactured in one great group of plants and therefore, Chrysler experience has provided, rest the economic possibilities for overseas reduction, conservation of facilities and the application to all units of a common policy of purchasing engineering and quality manufacturing.

Chrysler Motors manufacturing facilities and financial resources are so vast and their combined distributing agencies so numerous that every price class in every country in the world is supplied with a Chrysler Motors car—and each ranking as a leader in its class.

Each of these products partakes of the advantages of unified engineering purchasing and manufacturing according to all the others, the cardinal principle of the grouping of the properties being the one thought—to benefit the buyer by a uniform basic quality and an outstanding standard of value in every price field.

"In the precise form in which it is operated," said Chrysler, "Chrysler Motors represents a new economic force in the industry because, while still preserving a complete identity in the units and their distribution, it welds together the advantages resulting from the common policy of engineering, purchasing, manufacturing and financing under one personal head."

The inception of this gigantic plan actually dates back to the production of the first Chrysler car. At that time Mr. Chrysler had the plan to erect a great manufacturing organization individually controlled and directed, exchanging engineering, designing, manufacturing and production advantages among the units which would ultimately cover the entire market with a Chrysler-built car for every price class.

With the popularity which the first Chrysler, the "70," enjoyed from its introduction, it seemed advisable to develop a companion car bearing the Chrysler name. This brought into existence the Chrysler "58," many thousands of which are today continuing to give satisfactory service. Later the lineup consisted of four cars, the Chrysler "52," the Chrysler "62," the Chrysler "72" and the Imperial "80."

In the logical development of the plan, and to simplify public understanding of Chrysler operations, the Chrysler low price car, with its entire change in appearance, was named the "Plymouth" which signifies to Chrysler, was designed to effect the greatest possible economy of operation in the lowest priced field, consistent with quality and reliability.

With the coming of the entirely new Chrysler style three individual new lines of cars were named the "65," the "75" and the Imperial, the supreme achievement of Chrysler engineering and manufacturing.

De Soto Added To Line. Another Chrysler creation, the DeSoto Six, was added to the line during the past year.

"The new DeSoto Six," Chrysler stated, "is the perfected result of more than two years of careful study of market conditions and the ever-changing needs of public transportation. In no previous achievement of the Chrysler organization have I felt greater pride than in the creation of DeSoto Six. I believe that you will find the new car graphic evidence of the great strides in automobile engineering and manufacturing methods which have transpired in the last year to greatly increase the buying power of the motor car dollar."

Dodge Merger. The acquisition of the Dodge Brothers properties was, of course, the crowning touch. The rounding out of the magnificent conception by the Dodge line and the Dodge trucks and busses, and Fargo trucks and commercial cars give Chrysler Motors a complete

SHELL OIL CO. TAKES NEW NAME

With the beginning of the new year, one of America's most important corporations takes a new name, but one that retains all the main features of the old one known to so many hundreds of thousands of people.

From now on, Shell Oil Company is the correct designation of the producing, refining and distributing organization heretofore known as Shell company of California.

Growth of the Shell business and the desire for a name more nearly explanatory of the company's work are given by officials as the reasons for the change. Shell has long been a major factor in the petroleum industry, producing from its own wells, refining in its own plants, and marketing through its own Shell service stations and through hundreds of dealers. Its principal products are Shell 400, the "dry" gas, a great variety of other products—marine, fuels and lubricants, industrial fuels and lubricants, aviation gasoline, household specialties—also are produced and marketed by Shell.

With these Shell products being sold in all Pacific coast states and Hawaii, Shell officials decided that the new name would be more appropriate for such a widespread business. Besides, many persons often wrote the old name and spoke of the company as Shell Oil company, so this change will be right in line with public thought and will not cause any confusion. Needless to say, the change in name does not contemplate any change in management, policies or operation.

Foreign Machine Numbers Increase

For the first time in motor history the registration of automobiles outside of the United States is near the 4,000,000 mark, according to figures received by the California State Automobile association.

Line of vehicles covering the entire field of individual transportation. Infinite pains were taken that while preserving their individual independence no policy should be inaugurated which would deprive any one unit of the strength of all the rest.

Chrysler lays no special stress on large production except as a source of efficiency and saving. Nevertheless, in mere volume this great unified group has economic capacities and sales distributing machinery which in point of numbers is already at the very front rank of the industry.

PARKING RULES HELD TRAFFIC BENEFIT

Recently, California courts have held that the parking regulations in various cities of the state were enacted for the benefit of the traffic along the street rather than the parked cars, according to the Legal Department of the National Automobile club. The question arose in a case in San Diego and was taken to the District Court of Appeals which affirmed the lower ruling.

The San Diego traffic ordinance provided that automobiles should be parked with the right wheel not more than six inches from the curb line with the car at an angle of 45 degrees with the curb. This is similar to many other municipalities in the state.

An automobile, occupied by the driver and his mother, collided with the leading edge of a motor truck. The truck's wheels extended from ten to eighteen inches to the rear. The truck was 18 feet four inches long and was parked on the street at an angle of 90 degrees, thus extending its full length into the street.

In the collision the driver's mother was injured and in the lower court recovered damages. This decision was affirmed in the higher tribunal on appeal. In upholding the lower court the higher remarked:

"The parking of a vehicle eight feet and four inches in length and diagonally on the crowded streets of a city is a complete answer in and of itself to the appellant's contention that the traveling public using said street was not intended to be benefited by the ordinance under consideration. Obstruction to a street is a serious menace to the automobile public, and is as great a consideration as could be presented to the City Council, to induce the enactment of an ordinance which would tend to minimize the obstruction thereof by parked vehicles."

"Here the liability of the defendant is on account of its negligence in parking the automobile. Without this negligent act the lawful act of the driver of the automobile in traversing the street would not have resulted in any injury. Thus the proximate cause of the injury was the wrong of the defendant in leaving an automobile parked in such a manner as to be dangerous to the

Use Care In Placing New License Plates

"Watch your" new license plates. This is a warning issued to motorists by the California State Automobile association. It does not mean that the new plates will be "taken," but that there is danger of them being obscured by bumpers, trunks or other accessories.

During the license period a year ago, tens of thousands of motorists were haled into court because their license plates were not in conformity with the state law. Motorists are warned that the authorities will insist on the new plates being placed on cars to conform strictly with the law.

Cities Adopt Uniform Laws

Six more California cities have adopted the uniform traffic code, making a total of eighty-two communities in the state, including all the larger cities, which now regulate traffic under a standard code. This announcement was made yesterday by the California State Automobile association, sponsor of the uniform ordinance, which has been made effective in these cities. The motorists' organizations place the services of its legal department at the disposal of any city considering the ordinance and cooperates with city officials to the end that motorists may find the same set of traffic regulations in all parts of the state.

The cities which have recently adopted the measure are Vacaville, Monterey, Morgan Hill, San Mateo, Eureka and Livingston.

Country Leads In World Highways

Of the 6,500,000 miles of highways in the world, 3,000,000 miles lie within the borders of the United States, according to the California State Automobile association.

The only possible theory upon which contributory negligence might be charged against the automobile driver would be that he should have avoided the collision. This, of course, was a question of fact submitted to the jury and is in no sense a question of law, as urged by appellant, and the finding of the jury against the appellant is conclusive here."

STATE IDEAL FOR HIKES, MOTORING

In the last couple of years many motorists in California have come to realize the pleasures of combining hiking with motoring, according to a survey of the National Automobile club. The fact of the matter is, says the club, that California offers many inducements to hiking, and with the use of the automobile in the preliminary stages, many out of the way scenic places may be reached on foot.

Also it is pointed out, motorists have discovered that driving a machine for a long period of time, while pleasant, does not offer the free limbed exercise that a hike along a mountain road, for instance, gives one who is fond of hiking. The hiking activities of the city dweller, however, are restricted to the areas contiguous to the city and easily reached on foot.

This is not the case with the motorist, who can use his car to carry him to some hitherto unvisited spot and there park the car in a safe place, and donning a pack, take to the trails or the forest road. In fact there is nothing to circumscribe his hiking propensities and no section of the state that is closed to him.

All that one has to do is to select a section of the state to be visited. The second point is to choose a base from which to conduct the hiking operations. This will also serve as a safe place to leave the car. One of course, must take the necessary hiking equipment along, but with a car that should offer no difficulties.

There is one member of the National Automobile Club who, with a companion or two, has thus hiked into many sections of the state. He has gathered many fine souvenirs of his trips, not the least of which is a collection of some of the finest scenic photographs to be seen anywhere.

The question of hiking equipment, naturally, is important, but that need not deter anyone who has already done his share of closed in hiking. He will know what is absolutely necessary and will not burden himself with unessential or cumbersome items of clothing or other baggage.

The Outstanding Chevrolet of Chevrolet History

-a Six in the price range of the four!

represents 4 years of Development and over a Million miles of Testing

Years ago, the Chevrolet Motor Company designed and built its first experimental six-cylinder motor. This far-sighted step was taken because Chevrolet engineers knew that the six-cylinder motor is inherently the most perfectly balanced motor—the ideal power plant to meet the growing public demand for greater reserve power, faster get-away and, above all—smooth, quiet performance.

During the last four years, over a hundred six-cylinder motors were built by Chevrolet engineers and tested on the General Motors Proving Ground.

Day and night, through winter's cold and summer's heat, the incessant testing went on—until the present motor was developed and finally pronounced correct.

At the same time other Chevrolet engineers were perfecting other parts of the chassis. And another great automotive organization—the Fisher Body Corporation—was devoting its gigantic resources to the creation of the finest, sturdiest and most beautiful bodies ever offered on a low-priced automobile.

As a result, the Outstanding Chevrolet offers an order of well-balanced excellence—a combination of performance, comfort, beauty and handling ease that is truly remarkable—with a fuel-economy of better than 20 miles to the gallon of gasoline.

Chrysler's New Style is Based on Authentic Canons of Classic Beauty

Chrysler engineering has achieved something never done before in motor car design.

It has searched out authentic forms of beauty which have come down the centuries unsurpassed and unchallenged and has translated them in terms of motor car beauty and motor car utility.

The lengths to which Chrysler designers have gone in this patient pursuit of beauty will doubtless prove a revelation to those who have probably accepted Chrysler symmetry and charm as fortunate but more or less accidental conceptions.

The Chrysler process goes far deeper than any charming but fortuitous design.

For, Chrysler has left nothing to chance. Chrysler has not relied alone upon the inspiration of individual designers.

Chrysler in its newest products—has found that there are so many glorious precedents and inspirations in art, architecture and design, that the search for authentic and harmonious symmetry can actually be reduced to something like a scientific system in which results are certain.

RICKARD NOT GREATLY IMPRESSED BY FIRST BOUT PROMOTED IN GOLDFIELD

This story is based upon facts obtained by Kirksey up to the time of Rickard's illness, and on information gathered from many parts of the country and men and women who knew Rickard from boyhood, including his 81-year-old mother in Seattle, who contributed largely to the first chapter.

The story is copyrighted by the United Press Association. By GEORGE KIRKSEY

CHAPTER I
"Just a not who's zone crazy searching for gold," Joe Humphries remarked when he received Tex Rickard's telegram offering $50,000 for a return bout between Terry McGovern and Jimmy Britt at Goldfield, Nev., Labor Day, 1928.

"Humphries not only had never heard of Rickard, but when he went to look up Goldfield he found that the town town on the Nevada desert."

"It was a great joke to Humphries and he told the story at a party where he was offering $15,000 for a McGovern-Britt match in the Nevada desert."

Another Fight
Undaunted by Humphries' failure to answer, Rickard began making preparations for bringing another fight to Goldfield.

Before Tex could make another move, Jack played right into his hands. Billy Nolan, manager of the famous light heavyweight, picked up a copy of the Goldfield Sun in the lobby of a Salt Lake City hotel and read an "ad" placed in that paper by Jack Clifford, a fair light-weight of that time, who wanted an opponent for Labor Day. Nolan wired the Goldfield paper for more details and the wire found its way into Rickard's hands.

Rickard wired Nolan asking him how much he wanted for Nelson to meet Clifford.

$5,000 Guarantee
"A guarantee of $5,000 and a side bet of $5,000 for a finish fight," Nolan wired back.

"That showed me that Nelson was open for a proposition," Rickard said in recalling the negotiations. "So I wired back that the Clifford bout was out, but that we'd give $15,000 for Nelson to meet Joe Gans."

"Post $20,000 in escrow and Nelson will fight," Nolan answered.

Meanwhile, Gans was willing to meet Nelson on any terms had agreed to $10,000. Rickard, now had both fighters in line for the match but had not raised the money for their guarantees.

Tex, however, quickly enlisted the aid of the "big business" men of Goldfield, who wanted to put their town on the map and the guarantees were raised by subscription with Al Meyers, the discoverer of Goldfield, contributing $10,000. Rickard risked only $5,000 of his own money.

Suspicious of Rickard's tactics, Nelson and Nelson hurried to Goldfield and when they arrived found $50,000 in $20 gold pieces stacked in the window of a wooden bank.

Largest Purse
The purse of $50,000 was an unheard-of sum in the boxing world in those days and was more than any heavyweight had ever received up to that time, including Calverley, Goff and Fitzsimmons.

Fighters started training in Goldfield and the bout began to attract considerable attention to the little desert mining town. Then Rickard began building his first fight arena, a crude affair built a mile from the Main street, because the fact that voluntary labor was largely recruited to build the arena, it cost in the neighborhood of $10,000.

It was quite a surprise to Rickard when McGovern and Goldberg showed their credentials to him, as he had never dreamed that the fight would attract half so much attention.

McGovern asked him to pose for his first newspaper photograph and Goldberg did the first sketch of him. Embarrassed, Rickard posed for the photograph behind a livery stable because he didn't want anyone to see him before the camera.

Purse Unchanged
The $50,000 in gold in the window was left unguarded night and day but was never molested. McGovern and Goldberg made much of this tale of the unguarded gold and it gave Rickard an idea he was later to use in promoting his second bout. One of the principal reasons no one ever attempted to steal the gold was that it was too heavy to carry across the barren desert.

The fight was held Sept. 3, 1928, and the receipts of $69,715 established a new world's record. Nelson received $22,500 and

Richmond Soccer Club Will Play San Leandrans

The soccer game between the Richmond club and the San Leandrans, which was called off last week, will be played this morning in Berkeley at the San Pablo grounds.

The game was their last game from the Berkeley bunch and they should win again. The lineup for the locals will probably include: Jost, right full; Freese, left full; Baker, left; and Bracco, left center and right halves; Hood, outside left; Chambers, inside left; Brain, center; Fowles, inside right; Gries, outside right.

Chambers is a new man and makes his debut into soccer rings tomorrow. The local players will meet at Longfellow Junior high school at 10 o'clock. The game starts at 10 o'clock sharp.

Gans $11,000. When all expenses were paid, the profit was around $11,000. Rickard did not receive all of this.

Gans Victor
Gans won the fight on a foul in the 4th round when George Siler, the referee, disqualified Nelson for hitting low.

The troubles and drawbacks which attended the promotion of every big bout Rickard put on made their appearance in his very first effort. Even the day before the fight there was some doubt as to where it would be held. Bill Nolan caused Rickard most of the trouble.

"Nolan caused me more worry than any other fighter or manager ever did," Rickard said once. "Almost every day Nolan would announce, 'I'm through with this hot hole. We're leaving town tonight,' and finally I had the two roughest deputy sheriffs in town go to Nolan and tell him that he would never leave town in good health. That quieted him down but he went off on another tack and almost prevented the fight by dishing up an old rule which stipulated the light-weight limit was 133 pounds. He insisted to the last that Gans make 133 pounds. The severe training weakened Gans and contributed to his later death. Gans barely made the weight."

Not Impressed
Despite the stupendous success of the bout, Rickard did not attempt to promote another fight until four years later. Although Rickard never did say so, it is understood from many sources that he was not impressed with the possibilities of the promotion of boxing matches.

"I'll never promote another fight," Rickard is quoted as having said after the Gans-Nelson bout.

"Tomorrow's chapter will deal with the John-Jeffries fight."

SAN PABLO NINE FACES CRISIS HERE TODAY

The San Pablo baseball club must win its game from the Devaux Chevrolet baseball nine at the San Pablo ball ground today if they are to remain in the running for the second half championship of the Oakland winter league.

Should San Pablo lose today and the Piggly Wiggly team win over the Johnson Clothiers, the season will end with the Piggly Wiggly nine in first place.

The Piggly Wiggly team has not lost a game in the second half of the league and should they win the championship today, they will meet the Guarantee Shoes in a three game series for the championship of the league. San Pablo is the only team that can beat them out of the championship. In order for this to happen the Piggly Wiggly team must lose their two remaining games and San Pablo win their three games and get a tie with the Piggly Wiggly nine at the best.

The Piggly Wiggly nine will play its game with the Shoes at the Oakland Coast league park in Oakland.

The San Pablo club fans are showing keen interest in the team since Bill Gaudin, catcher for the club, has been signed by the Hollywood Stars. Bill is 21 years of age and has been hitting regularly. He will report to the Stars on Feb. 18.

Roland Roberts will be on the mound for the San Pablo club and the Chevrolet will use Buzz Leiber or Johnny Spackman on the mound for the Chevrolet.

MANY SUFFER IN NATIONWIDE COLD WAVE

In St. Louis and Kansas City, the forecast for that area, however, gave little hope for more than temporary relief. Colder weather for Missouri, Kansas, Iowa, Nebraska and the Dakotas tomorrow, the government predictions read. No snow was in sight.

In Michigan and Wisconsin the ground was covered with snow varying in depth from a few inches to a few feet. Highways were impassable today until road crews got into action with plows and tractors.

Snow in Chicago
Snow fell at intervals all day in Chicago. Adding to the suffering already made acute by near zero temperature, four kitchen and bread lines ran full blast on double stations and community centers housed those who were not able to buy coal. Relief agencies worked all day and far into the night answering calls of distress in the poorer sections.

The old South was due to feel full force of the cold wave tomorrow. Tennessee, Alabama and Georgia reported the mercury far below normal today with still lower temperatures in sight for tomorrow.

Driver Loses Auto License Proxy Secured

MARTINEZ, Jan. 12.—The mere fact that he could not read English was not going to stop Procopio Soto, Brentwood farm laborer, from securing an automobile driver's certificate.

On March 10 and again on July 31, Soto attempted to get a license by applying at the Martinez traffic office. He was denied a permit both times because of his inability to read traffic directions.

Soto hit upon an idea for securing the permit in another manner. He had a friend take the examination in Los Angeles, according to information obtained by Traffic Captain George Belton from the state motor vehicle department. Soto was relieved of his license yesterday until he learns to read English.

Agreement Made In Pigeon Row

Upon the promise of V. L. Negus, 550 Forty-first street, to dispose of pigeons which he is charged with keeping in violation of the city zoning ordinance, no action was taken yesterday by Police Judge C. A. Odell. Negus was given two weeks to dispose of the pigeon business which he was operating in a residential district. City Attorney Thomas M. Carlson represented the city at the hearing.

TENNIS STAR BUYS NEW BUICK

Home again from European and American conquests which have securely retained for her the title of world's woman tennis champion, Helen Wills, relaxing at her family residence in the shadow of the famous Campanile of the University of California in Berkeley announces plans for a season of rest and gradual commencement of serious activities in her chosen life vocation, art.

It was a thrilling season of contests both abroad and at home Miss Wills declares, but adds that she will welcome a period of less strenuous activity. Preliminary to settling down for her stay at home Miss Wills as has been her wont during past seasons, visited her Buick headquarters and purchased automobiles newest creation, the natty Silver Anniversary Buick sport roadster.

Buicks have, for many years, been favored by the champion's family. A few years ago, on her return to California from another triumphal net season, Miss Wills was presented with a Buick by a group of enthusiastic friends and supporters. This car, after a full year of highly satisfactory service has only now been supplanted by the Silver Anniversary model.

Miss Wills' sketches in black and white have received high acclaim and critics almost universally predict a brilliant future for the titlist in her new line of endeavor.

Miss Wills' acquisition of a 1929 Buick adds another famous name to an already long list of Silver Anniversary model owners in the spheres of sport and art. A few among those latter recently acquiring new Buicks are Travis Hanton, style expert of the Paramount studios who acclaims the Silver Anniversary line "the new model"; Connie Mack, veteran pilot of the Philadelphia Athletics; runners-up in the national baseball race, and Clive Brigg, nationally famed cartoonist creator of "Mutt & Jeff" and "Glad and Glorious Feeling."

C. C. Kratzer, Tenth street and Elissal avenue is the Richmond agent for the Buick line.

Armour Leads Play In $10,000 Tourney

RIVIERA COUNTRY CLUB, LOS ANGELES, Jan. 12.—(UP)—Tommy Armour, the former national open golf champion of Washington, D. C., eclipsed a fine field of golfers for the second successive day to hold the lead in the second round of the $10,000 Los Angeles open golf tournament.

Armour shot a brilliant 33-34-67—four strokes under par for the difficult Riviera course giving him a total of 135 for 36 holes of medal play.

On the final hole he was putting for a 66. But his ball flamed the cup and it took him another putt for a live—the first time during the day he was over par.

That of the railroads, according to the California State Automobile association.

San Jose, Cal.
Nov 15, 1928
To Whom It May Concern:
For some time past I suffered with nervous attacks similar to St. Vitus Dance. My speech was so affected that I could scarcely utter a word. My heart was beating fast and no sleep. I tried every method of healing known to me in vain. Then was recommended to try the Fong Wan Herbs. Now, after but two weeks of that treatment, I am completely well.

My friends and neighbors as well as the men who formerly treated me are all surprised at my recovery in almost no time. All inquiries as to whose skill brought me such wonderful and quick relief.
